

SOX Blank CARDS!

BOSTON Oct. 10--The Boston Red Sox took a two to one lead in the World Series today when they won the third game 4-0.

The stars of the encounter were Dave "Doc" Ferriss and big Rudy York, veteran first-sacker. Ferriss, pitching in his first World Series game, turned in a masterful performance, allowing only six hits while shutting out the Redbirds.

York, the Cherokee Indian, proved himself to be one of the heroes of the classic when he slammed out a first-inning homer to provide the batting power so sorely needed. This was Rudy's second home-run of the series, his first being the blow that won the game for the "Beantowners" in the tenth inning of the opener.

The hit came after Murray Dickson, Cardinal's sinker-ball ace, had two men out and had purposely passed his supposedly greatest threat, "Terrible Ted" Williams, to get at York. The Indian let the count go to three and one and then smacked the horse-hide over the left-field wall crossing up pilot Eddie Dyer's strategy beautifully.

After the final tabulation, Boston had four runs on eight hits and played errorless ball. For the Cardinal's, it Situation Normal was no runs, six hits, and they committed one error.

It would seem that the Redbirds, hot from their pennant race with Brooklyn, possess plenty of the spirit necessary to make a World's Champion, but the outcome of this game proves that the experts were right in predicting that the Sox would find themselves, once they were on home grounds.

The big question now is, will the Cards, smarting under the sting of a whitewash, come back stronger and more determined than ever tomorrow, or will they let a defeat of that nature lower their spirits?

And, so far, neither Williams nor Musial have lived up to past performances in this series, but then, time will tell.

Bos'n Mate Clifford Conroy again unflinchingly braved the dangers of life at sea when he daringly climbed the mainmast, in a roaring 50 mph gale to replace a bulb in the range light.

Asked how it felt, Conroy only grinned sheepishly as he said, "Shucks, its all in a day's work."

"...But its a mistake, Sergeant, it must go back...!"

"...Yes, General, it keeps the ship going and the men busy...!"
